

Welcome to Bavaria.
Europe's innovation Hub for Aerospace.

invest in bavaria

Meet top-quality talent and industry partners.

Aerospace plays an important role in Bavaria's mobility sector, besides Automotive and Logistics. Furthermore, Aerospace is a significant driver of cross-industry innovation, that affects and is affected by other sectors, such as IT security, new materials, lightweight construction, additive manufacturing, robotics, connected systems and fiber composites.

Production

Bavaria is home to manufacturers of specialized machinery and tools, numerous innovative companies in the supplier industry and technical service providers.

Research

Bavaria encourages aerospace research, fostering collaborations between top research institutions and industry partners to accelerate the technology transfer.

Aerospace companies

The corporate landscape ranges from small suppliers to innovative start-ups and global corporations – from established aviation and space travel to upcoming fields such as urban air mobility.

Employees

Bavaria accounts for more than a third of all employees in Germany in the aerospace sector.

Funding & Support

The Bavarian Ministry of Economic Affairs promotes the development of technologically new products and processes. It also supports the application of new technologies within the framework of open and technology-specific funding programs.

Universities

Technical University Munich (TUM), Friedrich-Alexander-University Erlangen Nürnberg, Coburg University of Applied Sciences and Arts, Technical University Ingolstadt, University of Applied Sciences Landshut

Businesses, universities, research facilities and institutions work hand in hand to drive innovation forward and set new impulses in aerospace.

Support for young aerospace companies:

brigkAIR is specializing in 3D-mobility for startups that are developing vertical mobility solutions and services. A special highlight is the test field with available airspace and one of the longest runways in Europe.

ESA BIC Bavaria offers a comprehensive incubation programme for companies who are developing a disruptive product or a digital business in areas like Robotics, MedTech, Mobility, Automotive, Aerospace or AI.

Starburst is combining three complementary activities: accelerators, consulting, & ventures. They help aerospace and defense stakeholders innovate, navigate and invest in the dynamic ecosystem.
